Trail Of A Tax Fraud Case, A Prosecutor's Perspective
David G. BargerBy David Barger
A. Jail In Tax Cases
Statistically speaking the odds of being prosecuted for tax offenses are small - less than 1% of those who are required to file tax returns. The odds of being convicted, once prosecuted, however, are high - greater than 95%.
Further, once convicted, the odds of going to jail are also substantial - greater than 75% in the author.s experience.
The Department of Justice, Tax Division, Criminal Enforcement Section, has historically required their attorneys to affirmatively request jail in all tax cases.

Another Shrine to MLM (Score: 0)

What a sad day for Utah County as another MLM temple is dedicated. It is unfortunate enough that we have companies like Neways, Nuskin, Noni Juice, et al foudning their businesses here, but now they are all starting to build their grand memorials. When will it stop?

Soon Utah Valley will become synonomous for pyramid or "get rich quick!". I don't think most of us want this here. The whole premise of these companies is so contrary to the Utah work ethic and values. We want to encourage businesses that generate true wealth, not those that destroy it by preying on the gullible.

The problem is that we have allowed them to become very entrenched in our society. Their chieftains have become big spenders in our towns. Our families and friends work there, and our cities are using their tax dollars (with the notable exception of those would be tax dollars that were allegedly pilferred by the Mowers).

I say take your money and your tax dollars elsewhere. Go to Vegas where you all belong.
